Gulbarga

Gulbarga, officially known as Kalaburgi, is one of the oldest and most historically significant cities in Karnataka. The city's name is believed to have originated from the Persian words "Gul" (flower) and "Barga" (leaf), while the Kannada name Kalaburgi has ancient roots dating back centuries.

The region has been ruled by several prominent dynasties, including the Rashtrakutas, Western Chalukyas, Kalachuris, and the Yadavas of Devagiri, each contributing to its cultural and architectural heritage.

A defining chapter in Gulbarga's history began in 1347 CE, when Alauddin Hasan Bahman Shah established the Bahmani Sultanate and made Gulbarga its first capital. During this period, the city flourished as a major centre of administration, education, literature, art, and architecture. The magnificent Gulbarga Fort and the unique Jama Masjid, built within the fort complex, remain enduring symbols of this glorious era.

After the Bahmani rulers shifted their capital to Bidar in the 15th century, Gulbarga continued to prosper under the Deccan Sultanates, followed by the Mughal Empire, the Nizams of Hyderabad, and eventually became part of independent India after the integration of the Hyderabad State in 1948.

Today, Kalaburgi is an important educational, commercial, and cultural centre in North Karnataka. It is renowned for its historical monuments, the revered, Sri Sharanabasaveshwara Temple, Khwaja Banda Nawaz Dargah and its rich blend of Hindu, Islamic and Kannada traditions.
